I did a survey about reading after school each day in my class. I found that 28 percent of the students spent less than one hour reading, that 17 percent read for one to two hours, and that only 5 percent read for within three hours. I was surprised that 50 percent of them didn't read at all.

I think most of the students need to spend more time reading, because reading opens our mind, makes us smarter and smarter, and makes our life colorful.

As a student, I think we should join reading clubs and take part in reading competitions to push us to read more.
