IX. 任务型阅读。(共 5 小题,每小题 2 分。计 10 分)

When you travel , you get to have a good time. Travelling is wonderful. However, you may have difficult times now and then. Here is some advice for making your trips enjoyable.

There's a saying—take half the clothes and twice the money. It means that you don't need to take too many clothes but you need enough money. If you take too many clothes, your bag will be too heavy to take. And there may be a lot of unexpected(出乎意料的)things. To bring enough money is very important.

Of course, safety is the most important thing to remember when travelling. Before you travel to a place, read a guidebook. The book will tell you something about the place, like dos and don'ts and weather advice.

Every place is different, but you can always follow(遵循)the advice on your trips. When you're waiting for a taxi, a man may come to say that he can drive you to your hotel. That may not be true. Maybe he will ask you for more money. Also, if you travel by yourself, always tell your family or friends where you are staying. That way, they can find you if there's a problem (棘手的问题).

Travelling may make you feel tired, but it usually has a lot of fun. Just remember to stay safe, be smart, and have a good time !

作文:(15 分)

Hello, everybody ! My name is Li Hua. I'd like to thank my best friend — Zhang Lu.

We've known each other for almost five years. She has given me a lot of help. Last term , I caught a bad cold and had to stay at home for a week. I was very worried about my studies. However , to my surprise , Zhang Lu came to my home after school every day and helped me with my lessons. Thanks to her , I didn't fall behind the other students. I am very thankful to her. I hope we can go to the same high school and our friendship can last forever.

That's all. Thank you.
