The History of the Men's World Cup

What Is the World Cup?

The Men's World Cup (full name FIFA World Cup) is a football competition between the men's national teams.

The World Cup is awarded every 4 years.

There are 32 teams competing for the World Cup Trophy (奖杯).
There are a total of 64 matches played during the 28-day World Cup.

A qualification phase takes place over the previous 3 years.

In 2022, the host country was Qatar. It was the first time that a country in Middle East had hosted a World Cup. The next World Cup will be held in North America (The US, Canada and Mexico) in 2026.

The First Ever World Cup

The first ever World Cup was held in Uruguay in 1930. Uruguay won the match, defeating rival Argentina 4-2.

Neither team could decide on which ball they should use so the teams played with Argentina's ball during the first half and Uruguay's in the second half.

Fun Fact

Although the balls to the right are the original 1930 World Cup balls, the trophy is a replica. The original trophy was named "The Victory" and was stolen and melted down in the 1970s.

Some people might think that the young are too young to know what they want. But people like Lu, 23, a fashion model from China, grew up walking the roads in Guangxi Province. Now, Lu walks on some of the largest fashion catwalks (T台) in the world.

Lu had a supermodel dream when he was still in primary school. Although Lu didn't have money or take any professional training, he didn't stop from achieving his dream. Lu collected pieces of cloth from the factory he worked at and made them into beautiful clothes. In 2015, he started making videos of himself wearing his handmade clothes and posted them online.

In the beginning, the videos he posted didn't get many "likes". But he believed what he was doing would be recognized by the world someday. Then, Lu quitted his job (辞职) at the factory and went back to his hometown to spend time learning how to be a supermodel. He also began to collect other materials for clothes, like plastic bags and even buckets, and kept posting videos online.

About one year later, Lu's hard work paid off and he became a star online. He's not just an ordinary (普通的) model. His one-of-a-kind clothes show off his talent and creativity, and his videos are mostly filmed on village dirt roads, adding a special and fresh background.

Lu has what money can't buy: determination (决心) and self-belief. We can be sure that if he hadn't followed his heart at young age, he wouldn't be where he is today.

根据材料内容选择最佳答案。

What was Lu's life like before becoming popular online?

- A. He was born into a rich family. B. He worked at a clothes factory.
C. He learned at a professional school. D. He worked for a fashion company.

What did Lu do after quitting his job?

- A. He started to study how to be a supermodel.
B. He went back to his hometown to make money.
C. He took online lessons on how to make videos.
D. He worked as an ordinary model in his hometown.

Why is Lu a special model?

- A. He quitted his job to be a model.
B. He worked hard to be a supermodel.
C. He kept posting videos of himself online.
D. He wore special clothes and his videos were filmed on dirt roads.

Which words can best describe Lu?

- A. Brave and patient. B. Proud and honest.
C. Strong-minded and creative. D. Helpful and friendly.

30. What's the best title of this passage?

- A. Never too old to learn
C. Follow your dream

- B. How to be a model
D. All roads lead to Rome

C

Tea is always considered as one of the most important parts of life in China. Now, processing techniques are also seen as a shared cultural treasure in the world. On Nov. 2 2022, Chinese traditional tea processing techniques were added to the Intangible Cultural Her List (人类非物质文化遗产名录).

Since ancient times, Chinese people have been planting, picking, making and drinking. More importantly, China's tea culture has developed social practice. It is a Chinese tradition that a host should welcome visiting guests with boiled tea. A poem by Song poet Du reads: I offer tea, not wine, to a guest on a cold night. When water boils on the stove, fire l with flame bright.

Boiling tea is one of the oldest Chinese tea brewing (沏茶) methods, dating back to the Tang Dynasty (618—907). Tea leaves were boiled for a long time and sometimes they were cooked together with different kinds of herbs (草药) and fruits. During this process, people can enjoy quiet time. Later in the Ming Dynasty (1368—1644), a faster and more convenient method became more popular—steeping (冲泡).

However, boiling tea is now making a comeback among Chinese young people. On the Xiaohongshu, or Little Red Book, there are over 40,000 posts on the topic of “stove-boiled tea (炉煮茶)”. Many young people post pictures. They lightly roast tea leaves before boiling them in a teapot on a stove. People sit around the stove, having snacks with their hot tea. Some also wear traditional hanfu as if it could take them back to those ancient times.

Through “stove-boiled tea”, people can enjoy a slower life and find their inner peace. As written in one Xiaohongshu post, “it is very relaxing to drink hot tea, feel the wind, and talk with your best friends.”

根据材料内容选择最佳答案。

31. According to Paragraph 1, which is the main character of this passage?

- A. Chinese custom.
C. Chinese history.

- B. Chinese tea culture.
D. The Intangible Cultural Heritage List.

32. The poem in Paragraph 2 is to show _____.

- A. people like drinking tea as well as wine
B. people boiled tea on the stove at that time
C. people use boiled tea to welcome the guests
D. people began to make tea from Tang Dynasty

33. Which of the following is TRUE according to the passage?

- A. Boiling tea takes less time than steeping.
B. Steeping is more popular in Ming Dynasty.
C. People should wear traditional hanfu while drinking tea.
D. People can only boil the tea with fruits in Tang Dynasty.

34. Why is “stove-boiled tea” popular among young people?

- A. Because they really enjoyed the ways of making tea.
B. Because they enjoy the living ways of ancient people.
C. Because they can take pictures and post on the Xiaohongshu.
D. Because they can enjoy a slower life and find their inner peace.

35. In which part of a magazine can you read the text?

- A. Health.

What are the beauty standards in China and how are they different from Western standards? What does beauty look like in the East and West? 36

In China, most people think that large eyes and white skin look beautiful. 37 Many other things can make people beautiful, too. My father said that the beauty of the Chinese people is in being gentle and implicit (含蓄的), like an ink painting. My grandma told me that, while dancing in the square, it is beautiful to wear colorful headscarves and smile brightly at everyone. My teacher said China is an ancient country of manners. Manners make people beautiful. 38 Now some apps make everyone look pretty, but she thought people should be themselves and show their own characters.

39 In the West, beautiful women tend to have big lips, blonde hair and an athletic body. However, people's aesthetics (审美) are always changing, and the exchange of cultures will influence each other. No one can make the standards of beauty for a country or a social group. The world will become beautiful only if we accept all kinds of ideas about beauty.

The good thing is that these days, more and more young people both from China and the West, are beginning to realize that narrow standards can be harmful. We shouldn't let anyone control us.

One possible version:

Because of me

I was the one who can take everything seriously. This quality brings me more friends and happiness.

After entering middle school, my classmates often asked me to play basketball with them. Although I did really badly at it, I watched the videos of NBA, practiced shooting by myself on the playground, and even learned from my brother who was on the school team. With all my efforts, I've made great progress in it. To my surprise, I was invited to take part in the school basketball game last term, and we won the second prize!

Thanks to the quality, it not only brings me chances of making friends but also makes me love life more than before.
