My holiday is coming. I ask my friends about the best way to travel in the USA. They say the best way is to go by bus and tell me why.

To fly, of course, is the fastest way, but you can't see anything during your stay in the air. You can only see the blue sky and white clouds. So it's not very interesting to you. And the cost is very high.

To travel by train is relaxing, because you can buy food and drinks on it. You can also see cities and the countryside through the windows. But sometimes there are many people on the train. And it's hard to buy train tickets during holidays.

To travel by bus is easy, cheap and convenient. You can find buses almost in every city. That makes travel easy.

I want to take their advice, so I will travel ▲.

 - D. It's not difficult for people to find buses in the city.

Shadow play(皮影戏) starts in the Western Han Dynasty. In the past, it was very popular in the countryside. Why? Because it was easy and cheap. There are three parts in a shadow play and they are acting, singing and music. It not only lets people know the stories in history, but also Chinese culture.

Puppets are very important for a shadow play. They are usually made of paper. But making them is not an easy thing. In the north of China, each puppet usually has 11 parts like its head, legs and arms.

In Shanxi, there is a man who is very good at shadow play. He is Wang Haiyan's father. Wang Haiyan starts to help her father do some small things for making puppets when she is a child. Puppets are her favorite toys. At about 13 years old, she starts to learn to make puppets and have shows with her father. Now she is very excellent, and she has a working room.

To make the show funnier and more interesting, she uses many special colors. She also has shadow play classes at school to make more students interested in it. "I hope more young people can know and learn shadow play!" she says. She also wishes that shadow play can be popular in the world one day.

Do you think that if your plant is thirsty(口渴的), it can tell you? Well, it really can—you just can't hear it. Plants let out sounds when they are under stress, a new study finds.

Plants have stress when they start to dry(变干) out or when someone cuts(切割) them. Happy plants make few sounds, the study says. When plants don't have any stress, they are very quiet. But why can't we hear their sounds? This is because the sounds are far too high for us. We usually hear up to about 16 kilohertz(千赫兹). These plant sounds start from around 40 kilohertz up to around 80. But some animals can hear these sounds.

The researchers(研究员) use microphones(话筒) to record healthy and stressed tomato plants, and then they use a machine to learn the different sounds between unstressed plants, thirsty plants and cut plants. After the study, the team finds that stressed plants make more sounds than unstressed plants. The stressed plant sounds like clicks(敲击), and a stressed plant makes about 30-50 of these clicks every hour. One of the researchers, Hadany, says that happy plants make few sounds. For example, ▲.

So, now we know that plants do make sounds. The next question is “who might be listening.” says Handany.

52. Plants can make sounds in the following situations EXCEPT(除了) _____.

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|--|
| A. the sound is too high for people | B. people don't want to hear the sound |
| C. the city is too noisy | D. the plants are very stressed |

54. Which of the following sentences can be put in the ▲?

- A. the sound from stressed tomatoes is very loud
- B. stressed tomatoes make a lot of sounds every hour
- C. when tomatoes are not stressed at all, they are very quiet
- D. tomatoes are stressed out when they are quiet

55. Which of the following can be the best title for the passage?

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| A. Plants Speak When Stressed Out | B. Different Sounds Between Tomatoes |
| C. The Sound from Plants | D. Plants and Stress |
