Cyclocross is cross-country bicycle racing. Racers spend only part of a race on their bikes because only part of the two-mile race is smooth. Other parts of the race have the challenge of obstacles (障碍). When racers reach them, they can ride over them, or pick up their bikes and run.

To be a top racer, you must dismount without slowing down at all. To do this, swing your right leg over the bike seat. At the same time, move the bike away from your body. This makes room for your right foot to hit the ground next to your left foot. As your right foot nears the ground, take your left foot away from the bike. Put both feet on the ground and start running!

As soon as you are running, you have to decide what to do with your bike. You may shoulder it or lift it. It's important to practice both skills. Sometimes you need to run fast and jump over some obstacles. As your feet hit the ground, you reach down and catch the bottom of your bike. Lift up carefully and keep the bike on your right shoulder while you run. Sometimes you may lift your bike. You catch the top of your bike. Then you lift the bike high enough to get over the obstacles and carefully put the bike on the ground.

After you have carried your bike across an obstacle, you will need to remount. As soon as your bike is on the ground, push off with your left leg, swing your right leg over the bike seat, and move into riding position. Remounting can be the hardest skill of cyclocross. You can learn by watching someone who remounts well.

Cyclocross is a great way to stay active and have fun. However, it can be dangerous. Make sure that you are well prepared. Then, you will just need to go!

23. What can we learn about cyclocross from the text?

25. Why does a racer have to shoulder a bike in a race?
- A. To jump over obstacles. B. To take care of the bike.
C. To make room for others. D. To hit the ground harder.
26. What is the text mainly about?
- A. The skills of cyclocross racing. B. The history of cyclocross racing.

D

We all enjoy being part of a group – there's no better work than teamwork, right? Actually, I disagree. Teamwork can be hard. In fact, it was so difficult that I left my office job and started working from home on my own. It's a much better fit for me, and it has made me think about why teamwork can make our jobs harder rather than easier.

Personalities (个性) can make teamwork difficult. There's often someone on the team that puts their needs first. The team often goes along with this person, whose ideas might not be the best, just the loudest. Just one difficult personality can make teamwork hard. Combine (结合) several challenging personality types, and it's even harder.

Not having enough time together can also make teamwork challenging. For example, I was once on a team where we never had enough time to meet as a group. To successfully work as a team, you need time together – and lots of it.

A final reason teamwork is difficult is because there's often no training on how to work on a team. You can't just put people in a room and expect them to work well with each other. You need to build trust with your team members. Think of football players: They aren't just given a ball and told to play. They practice, and they train.

Team can be hard, but working alone has its challenges, too. When my computer doesn't work, I don't have an IT person to turn to. When I have a great idea, I don't have anyone to share it with to see if it really is a great idea. Don't get me wrong – I still like my team of one and enjoy making all of the important decisions myself. But now I realize what was wrong with the teamwork I did in the past and how good teamwork could be if done correctly. And that's useful information – because one day I might want to turn my ME TEAM into a WE TEAM.

27. Why did the writer choose to work from home on his own?
- A. To keep himself busier. B. To keep himself healthier.
C. To make his job easier. D. To make his team harder.
28. Which of the following makes teamwork difficult?
- A. Strong personality. B. Lots of teamwork time.
C. Challenging ideas. D. Clear team roles.

29. What can we learn from the last paragraph?
- A. WE TEAM has hardly any advantages.
 - B. ME TEAM needs a lot of IT engineers.
 - C. ME TEAM has no challenges for the writer.
 - D. WE TEAM may be the writer's choice one day.
30. What is the purpose of the text?
- A. To show the advantages of teamwork.
 - B. To tell the importance of teamwork.
 - C. To introduce the influence of teamwork.
 - D. To explain the difficulties of teamwork.
