Next time you pick up a glass, look at where you put your fingers. Can you see something left there? That is your fingerprint.

Everyone has fingerprints, so do koalas. But each of your fingers has a different fingerprint. There are always three kinds of fingerprints — loops, arches and whorls. Loops can swoop(急转) in from the left or right. Arches look like mountains. And whorls are like the eye of wind.

Fingerprints begin to form(形成) before we are a baby. By the time we come to the world, we have the fingerprints for all our lives. Even after we cut our fingers, the fingerprints grow back the same way.

No two people have the same fingerprints. Because fingerprints are unique, they can be used to find out who the person is. That's why criminals don't want their fingerprints found by the policeman. Fingerprints can also act like a key when we want to use our phone.

44. Which picture shows a whorl?

45. What can we know about fingerprints?
 A. Some animals also have fingerprints.
 B. Fingerprints form when we grow up.
 C. The prints are the same on all ten fingers.
 D. We lose fingerprints after we cut our fingers.
46. What does the underlined word "unique" mean?

They visit different places of the city and face difficulties together. Josh helps bring out the best in him. At last, Lyle goes back to stage.
