Nina is reading a book which described 37 endangered natural and cultural treasures in the world. The writers want the book to be a hopeful call to action. Let's visit some of these places.

Venice

The ancient city of Venice, Italy has long been threatened(威胁)by rising sea levels. The situation is made worse by the fact that its ancient buildings, built on a body of water, are slowly sinking. When the city was founded about 1600 years ago, the level of the Adriatic Sea was almost 2 meters lower than it is today.

Glacier National Park

In the United States, the icy blocks in Glacier National Park may soon completely disappear because of weather change. In 1850, there were about 150 glaciers(冰川). There are 26 glaciers remaining today. Scientists estimate that the glaciers will be gone by 2030. Warm temperatures are also threatening the many kinds of plants and animals that live in this mountain ecosystem.

Great Barrier Reef

The Great Barrier Reef in Australia is the largest coral reef(珊瑚礁)system in the world. Rising sea temperatures are greatly harming the reef. In some areas, healthy yellow, brown and green reefs have become white. The coral whitens when it is in warmer temperature. Sick or dying coral affects the whole ecosystem of this special underwater area. Water pollution and visits by careless swimmers and divers also threaten the reef.

C

It is true people with better education are usually able to get better paying jobs. In other words, they have more chances to choose a good job while people with little or no education don't. It seems that the purpose of education is to make people get jobs. But not all the people agree with this idea.

Some people may think that a person should spend the best years of his life to get education in order to make more money in the future. This was probably one of the earliest purposes of education. In fact, if education is just a way to make a living, people don't need to spend so much time in school. They can get education for a living in a short time. Subjects like history and geography need not be taught to everyone. And people don't have to learn math and languages so carefully. So it is clear that education is much more than teaching a man to get a way of living.

So what is education for? Education is well—rounded and it should improve a man in many ways. It is not only to teach him to speak, read and write, but also to develop his creative thinking and other abilities. After that, it is to make him a wise man and thankfully enjoy the achievements of human. Education is to make a man lead a better life. Educated people are expected to be able to listen to good music, read good books, watch plays and most of all, take an interest in the world.

I would agree that making a good living is an important reason for education, but certainly not the most important or the only reason.

根据短文内容,选择最佳答案。

- ()28. People with better education usually _____.
A. have fewer chance to choose a good job
B. have more chances to get a good job
C. spend the best years making money
- ()29. What does the underlined word“well—rounded”in Paragraph 3 mean in Chinese?
A. 圆满的 B. 公平的 C. 全面的
- ()30. It is expected that educated people will be able to _____.
A. write good books by themselves
B. lead a richer life than others
C. take an interest in the world
- ()31. The passage mainly tells us that _____.
A. making a living is not the only purpose of education.
B. people can get education in a short time.
C. people should study hard to get better paying jobs.

D

四、阅读表达(共5小题,计10分)

In summer, it's common on the street to see many Chinese women holding umbrellas to protect themselves from the sun. But when Amy, an exchange student in Beijing from the US, first saw this, she found it strange, even impossible to understand. She wrote on her blog, "Unlike Chinese women, American women like to put on their tank tops(背心) and sunglasses during summer."

This may be caused by the different standards of beauty between the US and China. Many Americans don't want white skin. They would rather be tanned (晒黑). Amy also wrote, "Having darker skin is so popular that many women and men will pay for fake tans (假晒黑) so that they can keep their sun-kissed appearance during the winter months, too."

Why do they like tanned skin? Michelle Louis reported in her research, "The process of tanning can help make people's skin smooth and hide marks." She further explained, "Tans make people's skin appear healthier and make them appear thinner than when they have pale skin."

Perhaps there is no real ideal standard of beauty. In different cultures and at different times of history, the standards change. On Amy's blog, she also gave two examples: Some women carried umbrellas around trying to keep their white skin in the US 150 years ago; During the Tang Dynasty in China, heavy women were thought beautiful. But now, Chinese women prefer to be thin.

In a word, different standards of beauty should be respected. People may grow up with only one idea of what beauty is, but it doesn't mean that it's necessarily the correct or the best idea.

根据短文内容,回答下列问题。

56. What do American women like to wear during summer?
57. Are the standards of beauty between the US and China the same according to the passage?
58. In Michelle Louis' opinion, why do many Americans prefer tanned skin to pale skin?
59. When did American women use to carry umbrellas around trying to keep their white skin?
60. What's the main idea of the passage?
