It's reported that more than 450 million Chinese have myopia(近视). Around 30 percent for primary school students, 60 percent for junior high students and 80 percent for senior high students are nearsighted. Maybe this is because students spend a lot of time reading books and using electronic products.

Parents might have tried to do something to fix it, such as having their children get eye massages(按摩), take medicine or even get surgery. People who offer these services or products often promise that they can reduce(缓解) or even cure(治愈) myopia.

However, you will no longer see advertisements like this before long. The government has made a notice to ban(禁止) this kind of advertisements. The notice bans businesses from using words like "recovery"(恢复) and "myopia cure" in their advertisements. The notice says that myopia cannot be completely cured with medical technology now. As a result, these advertisements could mislead children and their parents.

To reduce myopia among young people, the government made a new plan last August. The plan limits not only the time children play video games but also the production of new video games.

Young people can prevent and control myopia by spending more time outside and less time in front of books or computers. People who have eyesight problems should go to a hospital and let a doctor decide what to do.

- A. 30%. B. 45%. C. 60%. D. 80%.

()27. Parents might do the following EXCEPT _____ to fix myopia according to Paragraph 2.

- A. having their children get eye massages
B. buying their children special glasses

B. Production of new video games has been limited.
C. Spending less time outdoors is good for children's eyesight.

()30. What can we learn from the passage?

- A. Don't believe the advertisements.
B. Students shouldn't be allowed to play video games.
C. The government and people are saving children's eyesight.
D. Myopia can be cured with the medical technology at present.

My husband Shane and I were hanging out on the street one evening. I was talking but he was looking over at someone.

He walked over to a young girl who was crying. As he talked to her, I could see from his body language that he was trying to calm her down. When I joined them, I realized that she had been homeless for some time. She told Shane that all she wanted was to go to her sister's house in another city.

Some people would have handed her some money, wished her lunch or maybe allowed her to make a call. Shane did much more. He said, "Kelly, I can't leave her here like this. Sometimes people need someone not only to help them but to believe they're telling the truth."

It was a bit cold, so we had an idea to take her home. When I asked her if she'd like to go home with us, she thanked me about a million times with tears in her eyes.

We went home and I gave her some clean clothes to wear and told her she could use the shower. We ate something. Finally, she told us her story.

In the morning she was finally able to get a hold of her sister, so she had a place to go. Shane drove her to the bus station and bought her a ticket.

Sometimes what people need is not just money, but people who will trust, listen to and understand them.

There are many reasons why I encourage people to travel, and I know that the experience will make one a better person.

I remember when I was traveling, I began to know the world better. The world is not just about me, my small town and home. Although you will meet different people from all over the world, you will realize that people are similar in their dreams, hopes and feelings. Enjoy exploring the different culture, and you will also find that people are different in some of the things they do and how they live. Once you understand their ways, it will not be strange or scary. Often we read stories about other cultures in books. Only when we visit their areas do we find that those stories are something wrong.

One thing you may find out is that there are problems all over the world. We can't just get money to send to these areas and hope that will work them out. The world should get involved (干预) and help wherever there are problems. People everywhere should be given a chance. It's so easy to ignore this if one does not travel or explore. One can look around and see that so many people have many challenges worse than ours. One can realize that sometimes our biggest problems are not that big after all.

On your journey you will meet lots of new friends. Talking to strangers and finding about their lives is a great way to spend your time. You will certainly be more confident after having to deal with problems and make many decisions along the way.

When you travel, you have to be on your own in some situations. You will surprise yourself by how well you can do that. All your special experiences could make an interesting book to read. It would be filled with your special memories.

Traveling around and seeing so much happening in the world around us is a wonderful experience. If we could all just travel a little more and share our experiences, we would all be better people and the world would be a better place.

- ()36. The writer wants to tell us that _____ in Paragraph 2.
A. people around the world are the same in their hopes
B. books always tell us wrong stories about culture
C. traveling can help us better understand the world
D. people in different places have strange living habits
- ()37. The writer advises us to help the area in need by _____.
A. sending them away B. offering them chances
C. looking around D. giving them challenges
- ()38. What's the meaning of the underlined word "ignore" in Paragraph 3?
A. 理解 B. 忽视 C. 对待 D. 克服
- ()39. Which of the following would be the best title of the passage?
A. People in the World Are Family
B. Traveling Helps One Make More Friends
C. People in the World Share One Dream
D. Traveling Makes One a Better Person
- ()40. What's the writer's purpose of writing the passage?
