Lei Feng Spirit

Every year on March 5,China celebrates “Lei Feng Day” . It's a day to encourage community service and volunteering.

Lei Feng was a soldier(士兵)in the People's LiberationArmy(人民解放军). He died in 1962,aged 22. His short life was filled with “selfless(无私的)service for the people” ,reported China Daily.

As a non-Chinese person, I learned about Lei Feng once I came to China. The lesson was quite memorable(记忆深刻的).

One day, I was riding my bicycle down the street and a tire burst(车胎爆裂). A passer-by asked if I needed any help. He kindly guided me to a nearby bike stand for repair(修理). Once we got there, I thanked him and asked what his name was in Chinese. He said,“I'm Lei Feng.” Not knowing who Lei Feng was, I replied,“Well, thank you, Lei Feng.” He and the others at the bike repair stand burst out laughing. I stood there confused(困惑的).Why were they all laughing?

A few months later, our Chinese teacher told us about Lei Feng, this hero of small acts of kindness and community spirit. I remembered the guy who helped me with my bicycle. Then it was my turn to laugh.

After this, I began to notice Lei Feng's image(形象)on cultural souvenirs(纪念品)in local tourist shops. Learning more about his life,I think his spirit of public service is important. With threats(威胁)like the COVID-19 pandemic(疫情)and natural disasters(灾难),we need people to lend a hand and show the “Lei Feng spirit” now more than ever.

根据短文内容，回答下列问题。（10 分

86. Why does China celebrate “Lei Feng Day” each year?

87. How can we describe Lei Feng's character?

88. What difficulty did the writer have in the story?
