Recently, my daughter reminded me of someone we saw at the train station a few years ago.

That day, my daughter and I were waiting for our train. We went to buy some drinks, and then we saw the old man. Dressed poorly, he was standing in front of the counter(柜台) while counting coins slowly to buy just one bottle of water. The businessman behind him said impatiently, "Hey! Can't you be quick? Some of us have a train to catch!" Hearing this, the old man seemed to be very embarrassed(尴尬的; 窘迫的), so he walked away quietly at once.

It was my turn. I bought our two drinks and the old man's water as well. We walked up to him and gave him the water with a smile. After walking away, my daughter complained, "Dad, the old man is so impolite. He didn't even say 'thank you' to us!" I told her that we did this not to get a "thank you" from other people. We just wanted to be nice.

Now, my daughter always reaches out to help people. She waves, makes eye contact(接触) and says "hi" to people on the street. She holds doors for people. She scoops up things that other people drop.

When I mentioned this recently, she seemed surprised. I asked her why she was so kind all the time. She said, "Because it is just right to be that way." Then she added, "And because I see you do that all the time."

根据语篇内容，选择最佳选项。

71. Why did the writer buy a bottle of water for the old man?

- A. Picks B. Collects. C. Breaks.

73. What is the right order of the events that happened at the train station according to the passage?

- ① The writer's daughter complained. ② The businessman felt impatient.
③ The old man counted coins to buy water. ④ The writer bought water for the old man.
A. ②③④① B. ③④①② C. ③②④①

74. What can we learn from the passage?

- A. The old man said "thank you" to the writer and his daughter.
B. The businessman bought a bottle of water for the old man.
C. The writer sets a good example to his daughter in her life.

75. What's the writer's purpose of writing this passage?

- A. To tell us to learn to share with others.
- B. To tell us kindness in action speaks louder than words.
- C. To share a funny experience with us.

Value Important Things Around Us

Good morning, everyone! I am Li Hua. Life is colourful. There are many important things we should value in our daily life.

First, we should value our lives. We should stay away from dangerous things like fire. We should pay attention to our safety. Second, we should value our health. We should do much exercise to make us healthy. We should also get enough sleep so that we can do everything well. Thirdly, we should value our relative and friends. We should show love and respect for the elderly. We had better spend more time communicating with them. For friends, we should trust each other and help them in need. We should get on well with them. Finally, we should value the time and make good plans for our study. Don't waste time on useless things.
